To help the government fight the funding of terrorism and money laundering activities, federal law requires all financial institutions to obtain, verify and record information that identifies each customer who opens an account. What this means for you: When you open an account, we will ask your name, address, date of birth and other information that will allow us to identify you. We may also ask to see a copy of your driver's license or other identifying documents. This information may also be needed for any renewal, increase, or modification of your existing accounts at The Bancorp Bank.
